FOREWORD

For several years it has been the practice of the Cincinnati Public Schools to appraise carefully the books published annually by the various companies supplying printed supplementary materials for school use, and to select from them the books best suited to our needs. The selections now comprise this Supplementary Books List for pre-kindergarten through grade six. The books are authorized for purchase for schools on their requisitions and charged against their supplementary books allotment in the budget.

A committee, reconstituted each year, but continuing from year to year with a majority of the same personnel, has conducted this appraisal. For the school year 1973-74 the committee was composed of the persons listed by sub-committee on the following pages.

The sub-committees, covering all fields, examine the books suggested by teachers, principals, and supervisors, as well as those submitted by publishers. In appraising books, the committees keep in mind points such as the following: Authenticity of information, literary quality, attractiveness to children, and the reading levels of children in each grade.

Titles cited for purchase in sets are retained on the list from year to year until such time as a committee elects to drop them. Single titles of which two or fewer copies are ordered, system wide, in two succeeding years are dropped at the end of the two years. A committee, however, may reinstate a title in the succeeding year. Committees annually revise their individual lists in whole or in part.

Effort is made to standardize the format, coding, instructions, etc. of the various subject lists, but the organization of the titles within each list conforms to the wishes of the committee. The committee arranges the books in the list in whatever way it believes will best satisfy instructional needs and be most serviceable to teachers who use the lists as requisition sheets at the time of the annual supplementary books order. In the areas which cross over elementary and secondary levels, the books have been coded and are included in the catalog.

Supplementary books for use in secondary schools are reviewed under the direction of the supervisors in the various subject areas. While details in the techniques used in evaluation may vary somewhat, the general procedures used by each area are similar. Preliminary screening of supplementary books is the responsibility of the supervisors. The opinions of teachers concerning specific books are sought whenever the nature of the book suggests need for specialized or specific review. When approved, the books are added to the Supplementary Books Lists for that particular subject. At least once a year copies of the list of newly added titles are sent by the supervisors to the teachers concerned and to the librarian in each secondary school. All lists except those for courses in the social studies include recommendations for books for purchase in single copies or sets; lists for social studies recommend only books considered appropriate and useful in sets. Supervisors may also call specific titles to the attention of the teachers in a given school. The teachers and librarian then assume the responsibility of preparing the list of books to be purchased for their particular school.

The complete list of supplementary books is a composite of separate lists in the various areas of instruction. Each list is a requisition form for the teachers concerned.

Although the sections of the complete list are not uniform in organization, some having a subject arrangement, the form of each individual entry is the same (see below).

Each section has its own table of contents, and, as required, its own special instructions for use as well as additional key to abbreviations and symbols. Taking time to examine these features will greatly assist in locating particular titles in the absence of an index.

In every category or its subdivision, titles have been arranged alphabetically by author. The subject categories and their subdivisions have also been arranged alphabetically whenever feasible. General listings will usually be found at the beginning of a particular category.

A key to abbreviations and symbols common to all sections follows:

AL - Able Learners
C - Single copy (not for purchase in sets)
ed. - edition
Gr - Grade
n.d. - No date
n.c. - No charge
P - Primer
R.L. - Reading level
S - May be purchased in sets
Ser - Series
T - Adult reading level or teacher use only. May appear in the R.L. or or in the Grade or Use column.
TE - Teacher's edition
TM - Teacher's manual
TR - Teacher's professional reference - theory, principle, etc.
v. - Volume
* - Pre-School Books
- "Building Cultural Understanding" Books

Example of an entry, with explanation:

CODE	NO. OF COPIES	AUTHOR	TITLE AND DATE	R. L.	GRADE OR USE	UNIT PRICE	TOTAL COST
4229-421	__	Liberty	The How and Why Wonder Book of Time, 1963	6	4-6	2.08	___

The number is the publisher's code, important only to purchasing department.

The book was published in 1963.

R.L. (Reading Level) shows that 6 is the lowest grade in which the median pupil can read The How and Why Wonder Book of Time fluently.

The Grade or Use column shows that the subject matter of the book fits in grades 4 through 6 of our school curriculum.

The price, $2.08, is net and subject to change, as in all cases.

Be sure to indicate the number of copies wanted of each title. Multiple copies may be ordered of titles listed for purchase as single copies, but may not be ordered in set quantities.

How to Use the Primary List

To find a book, look for it in its alphabetical place by the author's name in the categories listed in the Table of Contents.

If a book is one of a series, the title will usually be listed with other titles under the series to which they belong.

In a few instances, the title of the series will be given after the title of the book.

All new titles added in 1974 are underlined.

How to Use the Language Arts List

To find a book, look for it in its alphabetical place by the author's name in the categories listed in the Table of Contents.

In a few instances, books are listed under the title of the series to which they belong.

All new titles added in 1974 are underlined.

Key to Additional Symbols Used in This List

§ Denotes cassette tapes are available from the Language Arts/Social Studies Supply List for these titles

How to Use the Social Studies List

Examine carefully the Table of Contents for this Section.

The main organization of materials is by grades and units taught therein. In each category books are arranged alphabetically by author.

To find a book, look for it by the author's name in the appropriate category. Examination of—or acquaintance with the book will usually make identification with the correct category fairly easy.

Do not overlook the general listings at the end of each grade, or those for grades 4 - 6 near the end of the list.

All new titles added in 1974 are underlined.

How to Use the Music List

To find a book, look for it in its alphabetical place by the author's name in the categories listed in the Table of Contents.

When a teacher reference book does not span the whole 4 - 12 grade range, the appropriate range is indicated in the Grade or Use column.

All new titled added in 1974 are underlined.

How to Use the Physical Education List

BEST COPY AVAILABLE

To find a book, look for it in its alphabetical place by the author's name in the categories listed in the Table of Contents.

All books are teacher references, although in some instances teachers may want to loan books to particular students to use.

Usually only one copy of a single title will be ordered, however, it may be desirable to order certain titles, such as rules guides in numbers up to six copies.

All new titles added in 1974 are underlined.

How to Use the Special Education List

Examine carefully the Table of Contents for this section. Books are arranged alphabetically by the author in each of the main categories.

To find a book, look for it by the author's name in the appropriate category. Examination of—or acquaintance with the book will usually make identification with the correct category fairly easy.

Titles in the Educable Mentally Retarded Section preceded by an "S" may be purchased in sets of six.

All new titles added in 1974 are underlined.

How to Use the Elementary Teacher Reference List

To find a book, look for it in its alphabetical place by the author's name in the categories listed in the Table of Contents.

Many organizations and associations are the corporate authors of publications and some titles are listed under the names of these bodies.

All new titles added in 1974 are underlined.
